Media Release

Re-Cap of Calls for Service from This Morning's Commute

With falling and blowing snow throughout Northern Nevada earlier today, troopers from the Nevada Highway Patrol were kept busy by responding to several calls for service this morning. In a six-hour timeframe between 4:00 am to 10:00 am, 19 motor vehicle accidents were investigated, 17 slides-offs or spin-outs were reported and the Department of Public Safety-Communications Center fielded 298 phone calls. The crashes and spin-outs were observed throughout the entire region of Northern Command. Only a couple of the accidents had injuries reported and those were either self-reported or only minor in nature. Speed too fast for conditions was the lead contributing factor in those events.

With another band of winter-like weather forecasted for our region this week, motorists can greatly minimize the chance of an unplanned event by adjusting their driving habits and allowing more time to accomplish their commute.

In an effort to maximize your visibility, remove all snow from the windshield, side mirrors, rear window both tail lights and rear license plate before starting your journey.

Commuters who observe a stranded motorist or other roadway emergency are encouraged to dial *NHP from a cell phone so that the closed trooper will be dispatched by one of our DPS dispatchers.
